SAMPLE Dying

I am standing upon the seashore. A ship at my side spreads her white sails to the morning breeze and starts for the blue ocean. She is an object of beauty and strength. I stand and watch her until at length she hangs like a speck of white cloud just where the sea and sky come to mingle with each other.

Then someone at my side says: "There, she is gone!"

"Gone where?"

Gone from my sight. That is all. She is just as large in mast and hull and spar as she was when she left my side and she is just as able to bear the load of living freight to her destined port.

Her diminished size is in me, not in her. And just at the moment when someone at my side say: "There, she is gone!" There are other eyes watching her coming, and other voices ready to take up the glad shout: "Here she comes!"

A 1.1 . 1 1

And that is dying.

But still we have God's promises, in every robin's song.

For He is in His Heaven, and though He takes away.

He always leaves to mortals, the bright sun's kindly ray.

He leaves the fragrant blossoms, and lovely forests, green.

And gives us new found comfort, when we on Him will lean.
